BEAUTY made easy
Dr Sophie Shotter shares her secrets to looking great

Sophie began her medical career as an anaesthetist and C&U doctor in the NHS, but in 2014 decided to make the jump into aesthetics. With clinics on both Harley Street and in Kent, she has established herself as one of the UK's top aesthetic doctors. Thanks to her skills, she says, "they" approach to injectables. Sophie regularly shares her expertise on Instagram and is one to follow if you are curious about aesthetics, but are not sure what is the right treatment to try.

TOP TRICK
Active ingredients aren't necessary for everyone to get the best out of their skin. If actives (like retinoids) irritate it, you will do more harm than good by using them. There are gentler alternatives that will help you have the best skin health possible long-term.

SUPER SERUM
Revision Skincare C&E Daily Boosting Serum, £45, revision-skincare.co.uk

BODY BOOSTER
Inlaye Shaping Body Cream, £75, inlaye.co.uk

BRIGHTEN UP
Murad Vita-C Glycolic Brightening Serum, £88, murad.co.uk

This is an amazing combination of vitamin C and an AHA (alpha-hydroxy acid), which helps give smoother, brighter skin without irritation. It's a staple in my routine.

IF YOU ADD ONE THING TO YOUR ROUTINE...
Heliocare 360° Water Gel SPF 50, £21, heliocare.com

So many people are not applying sunscreen consistently every day.

Good skin is not just about the products you apply, it's about how you live – exercise, nutrition and managing stress. Think of your skin as your biggest organ and treat it well!

LONGEVITY SPECIAL

PLANTS MATTER...
"You'll hear a lot about biotech when we talk about longevity. Plant-derived growth factors, peptides and stem cells, harvested from stem in the lab and used to mimic the skin's own regenerative processes, are part of the conversation and offer something different from standard anti-aging. We're also becoming a bit more of plant-derived elements, it's not always to trigger collagen production by reducing cell-stretching responses. These have often received clinical treatments such as micro-needling and laser to create delivery channels in the dermis, but some newer formulations can be delivered without any of that – we're getting as much better with the technology!"
Dr Grawie

BUT THE BASKIN'S STILL COUNT...
"We have many new ways to optimize the aging process but the basics are still fundamental: antioxidants still combat oxidative stress, retinoids still enhance collagen production and UV protection is still the best way to future-proof your skin. There are so many great new ingredients out there, but some do have additional benefits we're becoming more aware of. We now know that mammalian epigenetic information can be used to boost the production of certain molecules, which enhance mitochondrial function and reduce DNA damage. It's a really exciting area, it's a really good thing for the biotech community as a supplement and it's great for topical application when skin is dry and irritated!"
Aesthetic doctor David Jack

PROCESTRON IS THE KEY
"If the anti-aging model was about waiting for things to go back to how they were before, it largely means getting there first. This is why we as a team that design from my point of view, we were the pioneers that did everything wrong. But the factor to understand is how we daily produce from DNA and UVB plus blue light from screens, which is shown to contribute to the damage of skin damage. You know, as doctors, we need to hang our heads against a wall to get patients to do the preventative stuff, but some people really are reacting that well. It's really good to see that. Not everyone has come on the journey but we're getting much, much better."
Dr Philpotts

LASERS ARE ABOUT TO...
"When I started in aesthetics almost 15 years ago, there wasn't much that attracted me to regenerate itself. We did laser therapy, though, and what I had then – and continue to appreciate now – is that laser is a very natural way of adjusting our body's work. We're stimulating the barrier function to produce more collagen and remodel existing fibres, and for some we can use the great gold standard, aggressive cell turnover and most inflammation without antibodies or aggressive downtime. There was a lot of hormonal inhibition and add on skincare and supplements in an "outside and out" approach."
Dr Philpotts
